We both brainstormed the heuristics violations and discussed on how to fix them. Thanks to other team members for coming out with the interesting evaluations. This assignment gave me an opportunity to work on new features like sub categorizing on the left pane, prompting user on ordering an empty bowl, and easy access to build your own recipe. I worked on these issues in code level and in the data model correction. Hoping to fix other interesting features as well in the next sprint. Documentation work was contributed by all the team members.
